

CALL FOR PANELS AND PAPERS

International Conference

Problems and Perspectives for Japan in a Changing World: Thirty Years of Japanese Studies in Poznan

変動する世界における日本の課題と展望－アダム・ミツキェヴィチ大学日本研究30周年記念国際学会

7-9 December 2017, Adam Mickiewicz University (AMU), Poznan, Poland

The Department of Japanese Studies at Adam Mickiewicz University (AMU) in cooperation with Polish Association for Japanese Studies (PSBJ) invite panel and paper proposals for the International Conference to be held on 7-9 December 2017 at AMU in Poznan, Poland.

The conference is meant as international and interdisciplinary forum for researchers and students specializing in Japan to discuss issues relevant to contemporary Japan. The second objective of the conference is to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the establishment of Japanese studies at AMU. The conference is meant therefore as an occasion to access the experience, evaluate both the achievements and problems, as well as to point out to future directions of development for Japanese studies. A special panel on issues related to Japan's constitution is planned to commemorate the 70th anniversary of its enactment.

All panel and paper proposals should be submitted by 15 July 2017 via the link provided below.

Sessions will normally last for 90 minutes with up to three individual papers, which should not exceed 15-20 minutes each.

Papers should generally be presented in English, but may be also presented in Japanese.

One person may submit only one paper or panel proposal.

Any requests for specific audio-visual equipment – other than standard computers, projectors etc. – should be specified in your proposal.

The panel proposal may also include the names of chairs or discussants. If these roles are to be taken by convenors, then please enter your own name.

All abstracts and panel proposals should not exceed 400 words (including spaces) and should be in English.

On submission of the proposal, the proposing author (but not the co-authors) will receive an email confirming receipt.
